12. Course contents: Management of corporate security depends primarily on the nature of the object and subject of this management, seen as a dynamic socio-controlled system. This is a special discipline, which considers the characteristics of the objects and subjects as pre-known to the students from other disciplines. These manageable systems / CS / influence a number of factors in the form of disturbances: criminal offending, unfair competition, uncertain debtors; errors in personnel selection, etc. Information flows, records, documents, people and circumstances have to be studied to improve the management. Any decision must be optimal, especially in terms of competition.
